Giulia 22 University Student - Bologna

"I walk past it every single day. I've just never felt like it was a place for someone like me."

CONTEXT

Daily commute along Via Zamboni; little free time between lectures.

GOAL

Something that fits her packed schedule and feels relevant to her life — not intimidating.

FRUSTRATION

Assumes art galleries are for people with an art background. She has none, and nobody told her that's fine.

NEED

Phone-first experience, fast entry, moments worth posting.

Audience Barriers

Visitors with little art knowledge may feel overwhelmed in the museum because the information provided can be too technical to understand.

Audience Barriers

Many people perceive museums as irrelevant because they often associate them with formal, traditional learning rather than with their own interests. In addition, many people today are constantly distracted by their phones and find it difficult to stay focused.

Capabilities and Devices

Visitors are used to exploring on websites and benefit from having easy access to digital resources related to the museum.

Capabilities and Devices

The experience is designed to be accessed through smartphones or tablets, allowing visitors to interact with the digital content throughout their visit.

Star Assets

It presents five major paintings taken from Bologna's churches, each linked to its original place as a "home" on the Map of Exiles. It is also housed in a former Jesuit building near Via Zamboni, whose historical setting adds depth to the visitor experience.

Star Assets

The project features a real Raphael, including The Ecstasy of Saint Cecilia, one of its most famous masterpieces and a key image widely used on street posters.

Motivations

Curiosity to discover a museum that many people overlook and to uncover the hidden history behind its famous paintings.

Motivations

Visitors can enjoy experiencing the paintings in their original context. By reconnecting each artwork with the church where it once belonged, they can imagine it in its original setting and explore its journey to the gallery.

Institutional Goals

The project aims to increase visitor numbers by attracting new audiences to the museum. It also seeks to raise awareness of the institution and its invaluable collection of artworks.
