

THE SECRET NEXT DOOR

Twine User-Experience Script — Pinacoteca Nazionale di Bologna

How to read this script

- In Twine, each passage = one screen / one moment.
- Links are written as [[What the user sees|TargetPassage]].
- Every passage has four layers:
 - SCREEN — what the user sees on the screen.
 - VOICE / TEXT — the words on screen and the spoken words (in-app text). Examples are in English because the audience is international.
 - MEDIA — image, sound, animation, haptic (vibration).
 - CHOICES — the options the user can tap.

Note: There are 5 paintings in total. Painting 1 (Saint Cecilia) is written in full as the model. Paintings 2–5 use the same template; the repeated fields are shown as "... " or "(same as Painting 1)", and only the painting-specific fields are left blank to fill in.

PART A — Hook & Onboarding

P0_StreetHook

SCREEN: A street in the university quarter. Old posters on a stone wall. One poster shows a sad woman who looks up at the sky.

VOICE / TEXT: You walk down Via Zamboni, like you do every day. Students pass you with coffee and headphones. The walls are full of posters — concerts, rooms for rent, lost cats. But one poster makes you stop. It is old and faded. A woman is painted on it. She looks up at the sky, and she looks sad. Under her face, someone wrote one line by hand: “Everyone walks past me. Will you?” In the corner there is a small, sharp QR code. It does not belong on such old paper. What do you do?

MEDIA: Photo of a real Bologna street + the painted woman on the poster. Faint street sounds. If you lift your phone, her eyes “breathe” (a soft, slow animation).

CHOICES: → [[Lift your phone and scan the code.|P1_Threshold]]

→ [[Keep walking. You have somewhere to be.|P0_Walkaway]]

P0_Walkaway

SCREEN: The same woman's face appears again on the next wall, and again, smaller each time.

VOICE / TEXT: You keep walking. It is only an old poster. But at the next corner, she is there again. The same woman. The same sad eyes. Under her, a new line: "You walked past me. Everyone does." You walk faster. Another wall — and she is there a third time, smaller now, almost a whisper: "I am only three minutes from here. Two hundred years I have waited. I can wait a little more." You stop. The street is quiet. You want to know who she is.

MEDIA: The same face repeats down the street, smaller each time. The line under her changes. One soft piano note.

CHOICES: → [[Go back and scan the code.|P1_Threshold]]

P1_Threshold

SCREEN: A dark phone screen with her voice. A line of light on the screen points the way to the museum.

VOICE / TEXT: Your phone hums as the code opens. No app, no download — just a dark screen and her voice, close, like she is standing next to you: "You came. Follow me. I am only around the corner." A thin line of light appears on your screen and points the way. You follow it past a coffee bar, around a quiet corner — and there it is. A big, calm building you have passed a hundred times and never really seen. The door is open.

MEDIA: Dark screen + her voice. A glowing line on the phone screen guides you, like a route on a map. The building is revealed at the end.

CHOICES: → [[Step inside.|P2_Inside]]

P2_Inside

SCREEN: Inside the museum. A cool, quiet hall. Light on the floor. Many painted faces on the walls.

VOICE / TEXT: You step through the door, and the noise of the street stays behind you. The air inside is cool and still. It smells of old wood, dust, and something older — like stone. Light falls in soft squares on the floor. The walls are full of faces, hundreds of them, watching you in silence.

Your phone gets warm in your hand. Her voice comes again, softer now: “Welcome. Before I show you anything — what language do you think in?”

MEDIA: Quiet hall, dust in the light beams, a faint echo. A row of flags appears. Soft tap feedback (haptic).

CHOICES: → [[English|P3_Mission]]

→ [[Italiano|P3_Mission]]

→ [[Türkçe|P3_Mission]]

→ [[See more languages|P3_Mission]]

P3_Mission

SCREEN: A dark map of Bologna with six grey, sleeping dots.

VOICE / TEXT: Her voice returns, slow, like she is telling you a secret: “Look around you. All these paintings — they did not start here. Two hundred years ago, they hung in real churches all over Bologna. Then the churches were closed, and the paintings were carried here, into this one building. And the city slowly forgot where they came from. Six of them are waiting for you. Find all six, and you will understand the secret.” A map of Bologna appears. Six grey dots, all dark. All sleeping.

MEDIA: Soft ambient music begins. Six dim dots on a city map.

CHOICES: → [[Show me the map.|P4_MapIntro]]

→ [[Take me to the first one.|PAINT1_Approach]]

P4_MapIntro

SCREEN: The Map of Exiles, all dots dark. Counter: “0 / 5”.

VOICE / TEXT: “This is the Map of Exiles,” she says. “Every painting you wake up will remember its home, and a new light will appear here. Right now the whole map is dark. Zero of six homes found. Let us bring the first one back.” One dot pulses softly, calling you.

MEDIA: “0 / 5” counter. One dot gently pulsing.

CHOICES: → [[Follow the light.|PAINT1_Approach]]

PART B — Painting Loop (Painting 1: Raphael, Ecstasy of Saint Cecilia)

PAINT1_Approach

SCREEN: A wide staircase, then a quiet room. The painting of the woman from the poster.

VOICE / TEXT: The guide leads you up a wide, silent staircase into the room. “Look for a woman holding a small organ,” her voice says. “She stands very still, with four people around her. She is the one looking up, away from everyone.” And then you see her. The same woman from the poster.

MEDIA: A simple map / arrow to the room. Quiet footsteps.

CHOICES: → [[Stand in front of her.|PAINT1_Story]]

PAINT1_Story

SCREEN: Close view of the painting. The room is empty — just you and her.

VOICE / TEXT: You stand close. The room is empty. It is just you and her. A new voice begins — warm, a little tired, like it has not spoken for a very long time. It is her voice. “Hello. I am Saint Cecilia. A young painter named Raphael made me, five hundred years ago. For a long time I lived in a church called San Giovanni in Monte — only a few streets from where you saw my poster today. I hung above the altar there. People prayed in front of me every day. Then one day men came, took me down from the wall, and carried me here.” She stops. “But before you feel sorry for me — look at me carefully. There is something I want you to find.”

MEDIA: Her voice + the same text on screen. Slow light moves across the painting. Faint organ and choir.

CHOICES: → [[Look closer.|PAINT1_Question]]

PAINT1_Question

SCREEN: A gentle zoom to the bottom of the painting, near her feet.

VOICE / TEXT: “Look down,” she says. “At the ground, by my feet. Tell me what you see there.” You lean in and look at the real painting on the wall.

MEDIA: Soft zoom to the floor of the painting. A small note: “Now look at the real one.”

CHOICES: → [[Broken musical instruments.|PAINT1_Fact]] (correct)

→ [[A basket of flowers.|PAINT1_Retry]] (wrong)

→ [[Some gold coins.|PAINT1_Retry]] (wrong)

PAINT1_Retry

SCREEN: The bottom of the painting glows for a second.

VOICE / TEXT: “Not quite,” she says kindly. “Do not worry. Look once more — right there, near my feet. What is broken on the ground?”

MEDIA: Soft highlight on the correct detail.

CHOICES: → [[Look again.|PAINT1_Question]]

PAINT1_Fact

SCREEN: A small “fact card” slides onto the screen.

VOICE / TEXT: “Yes,” she says, and you can almost hear her smile. “Broken instruments. I let the music of the world fall, because I have heard something more beautiful — the music of heaven. That is why I look up.” Then the guide voice comes back, quieter: “And here is the thing most people never learn. Almost every painting in this building has a story like hers. Nearly one thousand works were carried here from churches all over the city. You are not standing in a museum. You are standing in the memory of a whole city.”

MEDIA: A “fact card” slides in. Soft unlock sound + a small haptic.

CHOICES: → [[Bring her home.|PAINT1_Church]]

PAINT1_Church

SCREEN: A photo of the church San Giovanni in Monte. The map lights up one dot.

VOICE / TEXT: On your screen, an old church appears — warm brick, a quiet square in front of it. “This is San Giovanni in Monte,” Cecilia says. “This was my home. It is still standing. The wall where I used to hang is still there — only now it is empty. Six minutes from this room. One day, go and stand in front of it for me.” On the Map of Exiles, a light wakes up. A thin line goes from her painting to her church. 1 of 5 homes found.

MEDIA: Church photo + a small distance card (“6 min walk”). The map dot lights up and a line is drawn. A happy double haptic.

CHOICES: → [[See it on the map. | PAINT1_MapUpdate]]

→ [[Find the next painting. | PAINT2_Approach]]

PAINT1_MapUpdate

SCREEN: The map: one light, five dark dots.

VOICE / TEXT: You look at the map. One light, alone, in a group of dark dots. “One found,” her voice says. “Five more are still sleeping out there. Shall we wake another?”

MEDIA: Map, 1 lit / 5 dark, one line drawn.

CHOICES: → [[Yes — next painting. | PAINT2_Approach]]

PART C — Paintings 2 to 5 (template — fill from the PNG)

PAINTING 2 — Conversione di Saulo (Ludovico Carracci) · San Francesco

PAINT2_Approach

- SCREEN: A short walk to the next room. A painting full of movement: a man on the ground, a big horse.
- VOICE / TEXT: The guide leads you to the next room. "Look for a man who has fallen on the ground, with a big horse next to him," her voice says. "He looks afraid. You will know him at once." And there he is.
- MEDIA: A simple arrow to the room. Quiet footsteps.
- CHOICES: → [[Stand in front of him. | PAINT2_Story]]

PAINT2_Story

- SCREEN: Close view of the painting. A man thrown to the ground in bright light.
- VOICE / TEXT: A new voice speaks — deep, and a little ashamed. "Hello. They call me Saul. I was a hard man once. I hunted people who believed in Christ. I was strong, and I was proud. A painter named Ludovico Carracci painted this exact moment — the moment everything changed for me. I hung in a small chapel inside the great church of San Francesco, here in Bologna. Then they took me down and brought me here." He pauses. "Before you judge me — look at me carefully. Something is happening to me. Can you see what?"

- MEDIA: His voice + text on screen. A strong light moves down across the painting. A low, dramatic sound.
- CHOICES: → [[Look closer. | PAINT2_Question]]

PAINT2_Fact

- SCREEN: A small "fact card" slides onto the screen.
- VOICE / TEXT: "Yes — my horse," Saul says. "A light came from the sky, so bright that it blinded me, and I fell. In that moment I changed. The proud man who hated died on this road. I stood up as Paul, and I gave the rest of my life to the very people I once hunted." Then the guide adds one fact: "The church he came from, San Francesco, is still open today. You can walk inside its huge, quiet halls — and see the empty place where he once hung."
- MEDIA: A "fact card" slides in. Soft unlock sound + a small haptic.
- CHOICES: → [[Bring him home. | PAINT2_Church]]

- CHOICES: → [[Yes — next painting.|PAINT3_Approach]]

PAINTING 3 — Vestizione di San Guglielmo (Guercino) · Santi Gregorio e Siro

PAINT3_Approach

- SCREEN: A bigger, darker painting. A kneeling man, metal armour, rich robes.
- VOICE / TEXT: The guide leads you on. "Look for a strong man kneeling down, with shining armour near him and people putting a robe on his shoulders," she says. And there he is.
- MEDIA: A simple arrow to the room. Quiet footsteps.
- CHOICES: → [[Stand in front of him.|PAINT3_Story]]

PAINT3_Story

- SCREEN: Close view. A warrior kneeling, half soldier, half monk.
- VOICE / TEXT: A strong, calm voice speaks. "Hello. My name is William. Once I was a duke — I had land, money, and a soldier's armour. I won many fights. A painter they called Guercino painted me at the strangest moment of my life: the day I gave it all up. I hung in the church of the Santi Gregorio e Siro, before they brought me here." A pause.

"Look at me carefully. I am changing my clothes — and my whole life with them. Can you see what I am taking off?"

- VOICE / TEXT: "Look again," he says. "See the cold metal leaving my body — the armour I wore in war."
- MEDIA: Soft highlight on the armour.
- CHOICES: → [[Look again. | PAINT3_Question]]

PAINT3_Fact

- SCREEN: A small "fact card" slides onto the screen.
- VOICE / TEXT: "Yes — my armour," William says. "I put down my weapons and my riches, and they dressed me as a simple monk. The strongest fight of my life was the one where I gave up fighting." Then the guide adds a fact: "The painter's nickname, Guercino, means 'the little squinter' — he had a problem with one eye. But few painters in the world ever saw colour and light as well as he did."
- MEDIA: A "fact card" slides in. Soft unlock sound + a small haptic.

PAINTING 4 — Storie di Sant'Antonio Abate (Vitale da Bologna) · Chiesa di Sant'Antonio Abate

PAINT4_Approach

- SCREEN: A small, old painting that glows with gold. It is full of busy little figures.
- VOICE / TEXT: The guide walks you on. "This next one is very different," she says. "It is small, it is old, and the whole background is gold. It is full of tiny people — a man in a tall pointed hat, others in red and yellow, a big wheel, and something burning at the bottom. Go and find it." And there it is.
- MEDIA: A simple arrow to the room. Quiet footsteps.
- CHOICES: → [[Stand in front of it. | PAINT4_Story]]

PAINT4_Story

- SCREEN: Close view. A glowing gold panel, full of small figures and little scenes from a saint's life.
- VOICE / TEXT: A calm, very old voice speaks, slow and kind. "Hello. I am Anthony. Long, long ago I left the city and went to live alone in the desert, to be close to God. I was one of the very first men to do this. Out there, in the dark, demons came to test me — but I never ran away. A painter named Vitale da Bologna painted little stories from my life here, on gold, almost seven hundred years ago. I lived in the church of Sant'Antonio Abate, here in the city, before they brought me here." A pause. "Look at me carefully. Down at the bottom of the painting, something is burning. Can you find it?"

- CHOICES: → [[Look again.|PAINT4_Question]]

PAINT4_Fact

- SCREEN: A small "fact card" slides onto the screen.
- VOICE / TEXT: "Yes — fire," Anthony says. "Fire followed my name all my life. Long ago there was a terrible sickness that burned people's skin, and they even called it 'Saint Anthony's Fire.' Sick and frightened people came to me, and prayed to be saved from it." Then the guide adds a fact: "And here is something special — this little gold painting is one of the oldest works in the whole museum, almost seven hundred years old, much older than everything else you have met today."
- MEDIA: A "fact card" slides in. Soft unlock sound + a small haptic.

- MEDIA: Map, 5 lit / 1 dark. The last dot pulses slowly.
- CHOICES: → [[Yes. Show me the last one. | PAINT5_Approach]]

PAINTING 5 — Strage degli innocenti (Guido Reni) · Basilica di San Domenico

PAINT5_Approach

- SCREEN: A large, dramatic painting. Mothers, soldiers, fear — and two small angels above.
- VOICE / TEXT: The guide leads you to the last room, slowly. "This one is full of pain," she says. "Mothers, soldiers, and great fear. But look up to the top too — there is something gentle there. Take your time." And there it is.
- MEDIA: A simple arrow to the room. The music drops to almost nothing.
- CHOICES: → [[Stand in front of it. | PAINT5_Story]]

PAINT5_Story

- SCREEN: Close view. A scene of terror, painted with strange beauty.
- VOICE / TEXT: A gentle voice speaks, careful and sad. "Hello. I am hard to look at, I know. I show a terrible day: a cruel king sent his soldiers to harm the youngest children, and the mothers could do nothing but cry and run. A painter named Guido Reni made me — and he made even this pain beautiful, so the world would never forget it. I hung in the great Basilica di San Domenico, until they brought me here." A pause. "Look at me carefully. The painting is dark — but at the very top, there is hope. Can you find it?"
- MEDIA: Its voice + text. A cold light below, a soft warm light above. A single held note.

PAINT5_Question

- MEDIA: Soft zoom to the angels. Note: "Now look at the real one."

- MEDIA: Soft highlight on the angels' palms.
- CHOICES: → [[Look again.|PAINT5_Question]]

PAINT5_Fact

- SCREEN: A small "fact card" slides onto the screen.
- VOICE / TEXT: "Yes — palm leaves," the voice says. "A palm leaf is an old sign of someone who is remembered forever. The angels are saying that these innocent children are not lost. They are little saints now. That is the secret of this sad painting: even here, there is light." Then the guide adds one last fact: "The church it came from, San Domenico, holds a famous tomb — and a young Michelangelo, before he was famous, carved part of it with his own hands."
